SHAWVERS MILL IS BOMBARDED

Sunday Schools, Salvation Army and Loads of Entables Are Features of Last Sunday's Trip to Country.

The Flying Squadron was somewhat disorganized by the great war, and has not gotten together fully since. But slowly and surely the Squadron is getting on the job again. On last Sunday a contingent of the old guard "that never beats a retreat" had a great day at Cove Creek—a day to be long remembered—a date to be written in red, indelible ink on the page of Flying Squadron history. If there is a little "gush" in this account it will be approved and not condemned by every one who was present.

Mrs. W. G. O'Brien, the expert Primary teacher of Tazewell, Presiding Elder F. H. Forbes, Secretary of the county S. S. Association and J. N. Harman, J. A. Leslie, Commander pro tempore of the Salvation Army, Tazewell, motored east down the historic and beautiful valley of Clear Fork, on Sunday a. m.—one of the most ideal days that ever dawned on this blessed world.

At Cove Creek Methodist Church. Every body and his cousins was there. It was the first time a Sunday School convention had met in that section and much interest was excited among the people. But more of this a little further on in this "gossip."

The meeting was called to order and presided over by Secy. Forbes. Short devotional exercises were conducted. The opening gun of the day was fired by the writer of these lines, on the work of the Salvation Army. He was told that he could have ten minutes to say what he had to say. The idea of giving a man only ten minutes who is in the habit of speaking from one to two hours, was shocking, and preposterous. Some body—perhaps Harman, said "they know you, if the committee turned you loose you would speak all day, that's why they cut you down," and when his time came to speak he had "just one more point and briefly" as long as his breath held out. But I did not complain, as it was a Sunday school meeting exclusively, and was thankful for small favors as the Salvation Army always has been and is. The Army lives on the crumbs that fall from the rich tables of this country, and is thankful. No attempt will be made here to report the addresses, all of which were pronounced helpful. Harman spoke on the S. S. Tencher, a favorite theme of his. Mrs. O'Brien told the people how best to teach primary pupils, a characteristic address. Mr. Gose, of Burke's Garden, Rev. Mr. Rich, of Graham, and Mr. J. M. Newton, President of the county Association, made interesting addresses. Mr. Forbes talked on Organization, and I made a few feeble remarks in the afternoon on the necessity of getting the men interested in the Sunday school work, and Harman butted in again and made a fine speech on Democracy—Self government as opposed to Paternalism, in home and community work.

Rev. Kelly Neel and his brother, A. B. (or is it D.) Neel took part also. Tom Shuffelbarger, who led the music, was called on, but his face turned as red as fire, and he begged to be excused, to the regret of the audience. Mrs. O'Brien fussed because she said that she did not make but one speech, while Harman and myself made three, and she didn't think that was fair. No one on the program was more enjoyed than this faithful, intelligent Sunday school worker.

The meeting closed to meet in Burke's Garden in July. The Dinner and The People. It is not easy to keep within bounds in speaking of the people and the lunch spread on the grass in the church yard. The writer of these weak lines has enjoyed many such occasions during the past few years, all over this county, and he does not hesitate to say, and without exaggeration, that this was the finest in variety and abundance he ever saw. The foundation of all good picnics is built on and around apple pies, beet pickle, fried chicken and ham. These were there in rich abundance, in addition there was all sorts and sizes and colors of cake and fruit and trimmings. There was enough, after several hundred hungry people ate until they could eat no more, for just as many more.

There are no better, kinder, more hospitable people on earth than these same Clear Fork folks. They enjoy life, always glad to welcome the visitor, and their latch strings hang on the outside of the door, day and night. I wish I had space to name all the good folks I met, but must not undertake to do so.

SAMUEL SUMMERS.

News reached Tazewell on Tuesday that Samuel, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Summers, Bluestone, was dying at Mt. St. Regis sanitarium, where he had been a patient for a good while. He was wounded in France, and after returning developed lung trouble, with fatal results. At this writing, Tuesday, nothing definite is known as to the time of his death.

Later: Samuel Summers died 9 a. m., Monday. Burial on Bluestone on Tuesday afternoon, on his father's farm, on a site selected by himself before going to France. Funeral conducted by the Rev. Mr. Hodge, at the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Summers. He was 26 years of age. He volunteered in July, 1917, and served in France until the war ended.

He was gassed in the Argonne Forest in October, 1918, from which he never recovered. He spent a number of months in St. Regis, having developed lung trouble, which ended his life. He was a member of Bluestone Methodist Church.

COLLECTORS, PLEASE TAKE NOTICE.

Reports from the collectors for the Salvation Army fund have been coming in very slowly. Take a little time, boys, and finish up today and tomorrow is possible. Report what you have done, and don't rest or stop until this matter is finished. Tazewell must join the slackers for the first time on the Salvation drive.

W. Ed. Peery and Dr. R. P. Copenhaver finished up their list in about two hours after receiving their assignments.

THE MISSING STILL MISSING—WHERE ARE THESE PEOPLE?

The inquiry in this paper as to the whereabouts of Lizzie Helmandoller published several weeks ago, was answered by a lady living in Kentucky who knew something of Lizzie Helmandoller. This letter was mislaid in this office, and the Kentucky lady is requested to please write again.

A PRICE ON EACH RAT'S TAIL.

Miss Mayola Gillespie, chairman of the Sanitation and Civic Service Committee of the Civic League announced the inauguration of a campaign beginning next Monday and running thru the week, to rid the town of rats. A prize of 5c for each rat's tail and 2c for each mouse's tail has been offered by the league. The boys and girls will now get busy, and bring in the rat tails. No restrictions are placed on how the rats are caught or killed—run 'em to death, poison 'em, trap 'em, catch 'em by hand or machinery—just get 'em, that's the idea. Bring the tails to the corner of Hopkins street Wednesday evening at 2 o'clock or Saturday at 4 o'clock, and a member of the civic league will be there with a pocket full of money to pay the prizes. In killing rats you are not only ridding the community of germ carriers but at the same time conserving the food supply, for a big old rat will eat as much as a child—and knows nothing of the h. c. l.

ROBERT LEE STEELE.

Mrs. Robert Lee Steele, of Covington, Va., writes, inquiring of the relatives of her husband, Robert Lee Steele, who was born in Tazewell, so he told his wife, whom he married in Covington in August, 1914. He said his mother was Ellen Steele who died when he was 10 years old, more than 20 years ago now, and that he was reared by his grand-father, who lived on a farm adjoining a Mr. Coleman. Robert Steele deserted his wife in 1915, so she says, and is now supposed to be in the Navy, under an assumed name. The wife and mother is trying to get matters straightened out, in order to collect her allowance from the government. The editor has made extensive inquiry in this county, but has so far failed to get any information as to this missing man or any of his relatives. Can any reader of this paper throw any light on this inquiry?

"LITTLE PAT" LOWE.

Do you remember Little Pat Lowe? He was perhaps the first boy to sell papers at North Tazewell. His mother or was or is, if still living, Mag Lowe, living at North Tazewell. She left the community years ago, and has been lost sight of. Not so with Pat. His real name is Garland. Two letters have been received from him here recently—one by the editor of this paper, and one by General Manager, C. T. Larimer. Pat writes that he is now in jail in Lexington, Mississippi, on a charge of murder. After committing the murder he escaped, and was making his way to Texas, when caught in Arkansas, and taken back to Mississippi, and lodged in jail, awaiting trial for his life.

The boy expresses the hope that some of his old friends in Tazewell, will write to him in his distress, word of cheer will no doubt be highly appreciated.

W. V. YOST DEAD.

Mr. W. V. Yost, about 50 years of age, died at his home in Graham on last Friday. He leaves a widow, a daughter of Mat. Shawver, Clear Fork—and five children. Deceased was a member of the Graham Wholesale Grocery Company.

The reunion of the confederate veterans of Tazewell county will take place here next Thursday, June 3rd. The Daughters of the Confederacy have been getting matters in shape for the affair for the past several weeks, and those veterans of the county who have been spared to attend the affair will be well repaid for their visit to town.

CHAUTAUQUA AND REVIVAL TO CONFLICT.

The Methodist revival, which will begin in the Methodist church here on 1st Sunday in June, comes in Chautauqua week, which begins on the 7th.

This conflict can be obviated by having the Methodist service begin at 7:30 sharp, and the Chautauqua at 8:30. Dr. Crowe, the pastor, is in full accord with such an arrangement, and the Chautauqua Committee will no doubt, give full cooperation, and conflict will be avoided.

ATTENTION VETERANS.

The annual meeting of Browne-Harman Camp, United Confederate Veterans, will be held at Tazewell, Va., June 3, (Thursday), 1920, (under the program of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.)

The election of officers, payment of dues and other matters of importance are to be considered. Owing to the depletion of our ranks by death, the increase cost of stationery, printing and other incidental expenses, it is important that dues of members of the Camp should be paid, if we desire to preserve the organization and hold our position in the Grand Camp.

After more than a half century has passed since the Confederate war, your character, honor and loyalty as a Confederate soldier, has been seriously questioned by President Wilson—who has just awakened from a lethargic dream, and found you repenting and ashamed of having fought against the union of States in 1861. A man who from every consideration should have been your friend and defender. Instead of attempting, in his memorial address in France, over the dead allies and the American boys, to discredit you and the South.

deem it an imperative duty of every true confederate veteran, to defend his character and that of his fallen comrades, even if duty compels him to cross swords with the man or men, who have the temerity to misrepresent you and hold you up in a false light to future generations. Which I shall attempt to defend at our convention in an unimpassioned way—as the seriousness of the matter will admit. The camp will meet promptly at 10 a. m.

Sincerely your Comrade,
JAS. P. WHITMAN, Commander.

CIVIC LEAGUE TO MEET WEDNESDAY, JUNE 2.

The civic league will hold a meeting Wednesday, June 2nd in the Court House. We have in the office a full list of the various committees of the league, but lack of space forbids their publication this week. They will appear later. The League promises fine work, and the ladies of the city are urged to co-operate fully with those who have the matter in charge.

MATEWAN AFFAIR STILL A PUZZLE.

So many conflicting and contradictory statements have been published about the Matewan riot and murders, that it is impossible to state anything definite. One article said the Baldwin detectives were responsible, and started the trouble. Another equally reliable paper stated that the miners or officers at Matewan started the trouble.

And so, a report today may be contradicted tomorrow. Two things on which all agree—one is that the regrettable, disgraceful and bloody affair was all unnecessary, it matters not who started it. There was no reason why matters should not have been compromised without resorting to blood shed. The devil was at the bottom of it no matter who was to blame.

ATTENTION FORD OWNERS.

The durability and dependability of the Ford car is the most wonderful achievement in automobile engineering.

Theodore Roosevelt said that Henry Ford was the "Man who made a cheap car good and a good car cheap." He makes it cheap because of his wonderful organization and production; he makes it good because of the use of Vanadium steel and the application of the correct principals of mechanics.

Every time you place or allow to be put in your car any but genuine Ford parts made by the Ford Motor Company you are destroying the efficiency and durability of your car and placing your life in jeopardy. If your mechanic hasn't genuine parts see that he gets them.

ROBERT E. LEE'S TOMB.

It is generally known that the tomb of Robert E. Lee is in the Chapel of Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va. Action has been taken by the officials of the university to enlarge and beautify the chapel in keeping with the tomb, and esteem in which the hero is held.

They have requested the Daughters of the Confederacy to have a representative of their organization appointed custodian to be present at all times to receive visitors and give desired and accurate information. Up to the present time a colored janitor is the only person in direct charge. The Virginia Division U. D. C. claim the honor and privilege of providing for the custodian and each chapter is asked to raise some money for it.

The Tazewell Daughters urge all who are interested to contribute to this fund, either send to their treasurer, Miss Jessie O'Keefe, or drop money in a box that will be cared for by the young women stationed on the hotel porch on Memorial Day.

We are told that General Grants tomb is in the care of four custodians. Surely we people of the South will see to it that our beloved hero's tomb, office and surroundings are cared for by one whose heart is there or who can give intelligent information to the many tourists, who in this day of automobiles and good roads throng Lexington and asked to be shown the tomb.

Let Tazewell show her loyalty and enthusiasm for this sacred cause by sending in no meagre donation.

TAZEWELL P. O. SOON 2ND CLASS

Office Will Be Advanced As Result of Growing Business—More Men To Be Employed and Shorter Hours.

Postmaster A. B. Buchanan has recently been informed by the Post Office Department that as a result of the increase in business of the Tazewell office the same will be advanced to the position of second class, beginning July 1st.

With this news comes also the report that Tazewell will now be in line for a Government building to house the growing postal business, and the Tazewell-North Tazewell Board of Trade will be urged to get busy.

Postmaster Buchanan has made a most satisfactory and accommodating official in the past two Presidential terms, and there seems nothing in the way of his re-appointment by the next Democratic President.

Wilford W. Beavers, the efficient assistant P. M., will come in for benefits from the change in the office from third to second class. He will be made chief clerk, his hours of labor will be shortened and his compensation increased. Additional help will be added to Mr. Buchanan's force of men when the change takes effect.

Of Interest to You—

AN IMPORTANT business transaction has just been concluded that will interest you because it concerns every farmer in this locality. It is this: From now on

We will handle

The Full International Line

Harvesting Machines Hay and Corn Machines
Tillage Implements Plows Seeding Machines
Kerosene Tractors Threshers Motor Trucks
Kerosene Engines Cream Separators
Manure Spreaders Farm Wagons
Feed Grinders Binder Twine

The above listing covers all machines and implements represented by the service-renowned, time-honored trade-names: McCormick, Deering, International, P.O., and Chattanooga.

What does this mean to you as a Farmer?

IT MEANS, first of all, that you can buy farm operating equipment of service-proved quality and efficiency for every farm purpose from one concern—us. It means that you won't be taking chances on experiments or implements that might be "orphaned" one or two years after you buy them on account of the manufacturer going out of business, because the Harvester Company is too well established for its permanency even to be questioned.

IT MEANS, also, that you don't have to go to the bother and expense of trying to get repair service from half a dozen or more different companies. And you won't be taking chances on expensive delays waiting for repairs during your busy season, because we are going to carry a big stock of repairs on hand, and any extra that we might not have in stock at any time can be secured in a hurry by a phone call to the International Harvester branch house.

Tack this advertisement up in your machine shed as a reminder when in need of International repairs or machines.
